Architectural Description of the Property

The house located at 409 Sportsman Drive is clean a one-story single-family structure on a quiet street in Kill Devil Hills of North Carolina. The house is comprised of a squared volume with a front projection forming a protected screen porch entry. The clean white color, light blue eaves and low slope roof identify it as a flat top cottages that are indigenous to the Outer Banks. In terms of materials, the house is primarily a smooth stucco veneer over what looks to be concrete masonry units. It is painted a continuous bright white color throughout. The roofs are slightly canted to better shed water but it's not visible to the viewer standing at eye level. Most windows are covered with light blue stand-off shutters. The white windows appear to be double hung typically with added horizontal muntins giving them a modern horizontal four panel look. There is no window trim other than a prominent sill projecting from the plane of the facade. A white chimney rises from the clean lines of the roof but since it's centrally located (and painted white with a blue band to match) within the volume of the house, it has less visual impact than it would if located on the exterior walls.

7. Historic Discussion of the Property

This house was built in 1960, according to Dare County tax records. The structure is located in the Avalon Beach Annex Subdivision, which was developed in part by Curtis and Lillian Jones of the Lakeside Company. This was the first subdivision in the area that was marketed and priced for the middle class. Promotional flyers and other advertisements were sent to employees at the Norfolk shipyard and Ford Motor Company Plant in Tidewater. The lots sold for between $3,000 and $5,000 at the time. Ms. Doris H. Ducey bought the lot from the Jones family in 1951. A house was originally constructed in the early 1950s and was destroyed by Hurricane Hazel in 1954. The current house was built in 1960 and was modeled in the same style as the original house. The house originally had a gas stove and a water well in the yard and has had minor modern upgrades in the kitchen. The original floor plan has remained the same since it was constructed. The house has remained in the Ducey/King Family since it was built and has been used solely as a vacation home

Assessment of the Significance of the Site

- a. Special Significance in terms of its history, architecture, and/or cultural importance: Built in 1960, this structure ushered in the era of affordable homes on inexpensive land. This was the first working class development on the Outer Banks. Its unique architecture was prominent at the time for its affordability. This architectural design of the Avalon Flat tops was based on the larger flat top houses designed and constructed by Frank Stick in Southern Shores. In the 1950's Avalon Beach was the largest residential development on the Outer Banks. Its unique architecture was prominent at the time for affordability. Additionally, the concrete block on slab also was cool in the summer heat and enclosed porches were utilized as a gathering place. In addition, concrete was used because after World War II lumber was very expensive and in short supply. The property is well preserved and maintains its original historic character. The original house was destroyed by Hurricane Hazel in 1954, which as a category 4 is the strongest storm to ever hit the Carolina Coast and the existing house was rebuilt in 1960. The house did not experience and flooding from the Ash Wednesday Storm in 1962. The structure also made it through both the Halloween Storm in 1991 and Hurricane Isabel in 2003 with minor damage, in which areas of Dare County experienced major property loss.
- b. Integrity of the property's design, setting, workmanship, materials, feeling and/or association: The house is approximately 896 square feet constructed of concrete block on slab with a flat roof. The property is unaltered from its original appearance. The house was constructed in 1960. Common to the original flat tops in the Avalon Beach Subdivision local contractors were used to construct these simple concrete block houses with flat roofs. The exterior color has always been white with Irish green trim, the trim was changed to teal in 2017. The original screen porch remains and there has not been any additions to the original footprint of the building other than modern upgrades in the kitchen and a new roof in 1993.

8. Assessment of the Property's Suitability for Preservation or Restoration, Educational Value, and Possibilities for Adaptive or Alternative Use

The property is in very good condition. The property has remained in the same existing footprint as originally constructed. There are approximately a dozen of these structures in their original condition in Kill Devil Hills. It is one of the best examples of this type of architecture built in the time period. The property and structure would provide a great addition to the Town's Historic Landmark inventory. It embodies both the recognizable style from the flat top designs from the 1950s and early 1960s. It also provides an example of how both the design and build of the flat tops were able to endure the elements.

9. Total Tax Value of the Property

Total value of the property is $361,900 according to the Dare County Tax Office.

10. Documentation of Historical Significance to the Town of Kill Devil Hills.

The structure was built in 1960 in the height of development in Avalon Beach. Curtis and Lillian Jones of the Lakeside Corporation were the developers of the Avalon Beach Subdivision. In the 1950's there were hundreds of structures of this type built creating the largest residential development on the Outer Banks at the time. The Avalon Beach Subdivision was marketed as affordable second homes for the working class.

11. Documentation of Architectural Significance to the Town of Kill Devil Hills.

The house is an original concrete block structure with stucco siding. This flattop style was similar to the flat tops designed and built by Frank Stick in Southern Shores. It is similar to a number of houses built in Kill Devil Hills in the late 50s and early 60s whose design is unique to that period for its architectural significance. These structures introduced an era in Town that attracted the working class to the Outer Banks making it no longer just for the wealthy elites. The structure is in excellent condition, having minor upgrades, it remains basically unchanged since it was constructed with few minor renovations. These original flat top structures are becoming rare on the Outer Banks. Adding this house to the historic designation would provide the Town the ability to preserve a unique architectural design and classic style that was once prevalent both in this subdivision and throughout the adjoining towns.

12. National Register Criteria met by Property

13. Documentation for Inclusion of Accompanying Land

The lots on which the structure is located provide an appropriate setting for the building.

RE: Proposed Designation of Ducey Cottage, 409 Sportsman Drive West, Kill Devil Hills, Dare County.

Dear Mr. Lang:

Thank you for the report we received on the proposed designation of the Ducey Cottage, 409 Sportsman Drive West, Kill Devil Hills, Dare County. We have reviewed the report and offer the following comments in accordance with North Carolina General Statute 160D-946.

According to the report, Ducey Cottage is of special local significance because its architecture and association with Avalon Beach.

The report provides a good argument for local significance of Ducey Cottage. We have shared recommendations with staff to include additional information in the report. We believe that with the recommended additions, the report will provide the Kill Devil Hills Historic Landmark Commission and local governing board sufficient information to determine whether Ducey Cottage possesses the requisite special local significance and integrity for local historic landmark designation.

Landmark designation means the community recognizes the property is worthy of preservation because of its special significance to the local community. If designated, any substantial changes in design, materials, and appearance to the property are subject to the design review procedures of the preservation commission. The owner may receive an annual deferral of up to fifty percent of the property taxes for as long as the property is designated and retains significance and integrity. (N.C.G.S. 105-278 et seq.).

Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the report. Please note, our comments are advisory only and therefore nonbinding. Once the governing board has received a recommendation from Kill Devil Hills

Historic Landmark Commission, it should proceed in the same manner as would otherwise be required for an amendment to the zoning ordinance. Once the decision has been made, please return a completed copy of the enclosed form to our office.

This letter serves as our comments on the proposed designation of Ducey Cottage, 409 Sportsman Drive West, Kill Devil Hills, Dare County. Historic Preservation Specialist Lauren Poole reviewed the report and offers the following comments:

The local landmark designation report for the Ducey Cottage in Kill Devil Hills in Dare County provides a good argument for local landmark designation. The residence is an example of the Flat Top type, a modernist design developed and popularized by architect Frank Stick along the Outer Banks of North Carolina during the mid-twentieth century. According to the report, the Ducey Cottage derives its primary significance from its architectural form and its association Avalon Beach, the largest residential development constructed on the Outer Banks during the mid-twentieth century. Although the local designation report includes some information about the prevalence of the Flat Top design along the Outer Banks, additional information would strength the eligibility argument. An expanded report should include a more in-depth discussion of the character-defining features of the Flat Top type and any Avalon Beach specific variants. Information about the number of Flat Top houses constructed along the Outer Banks during the mid-twentieth century and the number of surviving examples of the type with Avalon Beach would also strengthen the existing significance argument. The report should demonstrate why this example of a Flat Top residence rises to a level of significance to be eligible for local landmark designation. A more detailed statement of significance will aid in the creation of justifiable ordinance.

According to the report, the Ducey Cottage retains a high degree of physical integrity with few modifications. A new roof and kitchen were added in 1993, but otherwise, the exterior of the house appears to retain its original form and footprint. A description and photographs of the interior of the residence was not included in the local designation report, so it is unclear if any other alterations have occurred to the interior floor plan or finishes. Although the report briefly addresses the integrity of the resource, it lacks a full assessment of the house's integrity of location, setting, design, materials, workmanship, feeling, and association. This will be problematic for the development of a justifiable ordinance and does not provide a sound basis for preservation planning activities or maintenance of the property. A successful report should include a comprehensive assessment of the residence's integrity.

The report does not provide a complete description and justification for the proposed designation boundaries. It is also unclear whether the interior of the residence is included in the local designation. The designated areas should be clarified for the purposes of creating a justifiable ordinance. A description and photographs of the interior of the building, as well as a floor plan of the building, will also be necessary if the interior is included in the designation.

Although the report includes exterior photographs of the house, additional documentation is required. The report should include maps that clearly indicate the proposed boundary of the designated area. A tax or plat map of the property was not included in the report. Additionally, a site plan labeled with major buildings and landscape features is required.

Thank you for this opportunity to review this report. Please let me know if you have any questions.

Best,

Kristi
